

WAC Select Program: Parent Q&A

Q: Is WAC Select the right fit for my daughter?

A: WAC Select is a great fit for players who are passionate about softball, want to train at a higher level, and are ready for more time commitment and competitive expectations. If your daughter is motivated to improve year-round, enjoys pushing herself, and is interested in playing at the high school or college level, this may be a strong fit.

Q: What if my daughter doesn't make or isn't interested in the Select team?

A: That's absolutely okay—and very common. Our volunteer-led WAC teams continue to offer a fun, competitive, and meaningful softball experience. Many players choose this path and thrive both on the field and as part of our community. The Select Program is one of many ways to grow within WAC.

Q: Will my child still receive quality coaching on a traditional WAC team?

A: Yes. Our volunteer coaches are trained, supported, and committed to helping every player improve. WAC has a long history of developing great players through our volunteer-led teams, and that commitment remains just as strong today.

Q: What's the time commitment difference between WAC Select and traditional WAC teams?

A: Select teams have a more intensive schedule, including structured practices, development sessions, and travel tournaments across fall, winter, and spring. Traditional teams typically have a more local, seasonal schedule, with fewer off-season commitments—ideal for multi-sport athletes or families balancing other priorities.

Q: What if my daughter wants to try Select in the future but isn't ready now?

A: That's completely fine. Many players continue on a traditional team for a few seasons and move into Select when they feel more prepared. There's no "right" timeline—only what works best for your daughter's development and confidence.

Q: Will WAC still support all players equally?

A: Absolutely. Every WAC player—Select or traditional—is a valued part of our club. Our mission is to provide opportunities for all girls to grow, play, and succeed in the sport they love.
